

detroit-coded:earlyspring

@ Motor City Wine

@ Foxglove

@ Kung Fu

Guided Meditation for Summer Style

Close your eyes. Imagine a beautiful endless lake under a sky dotted with cumulus clouds. A circular platform rises from the depths of this ancient lake. Place yourself on this platform. Suddenly the sky changes to an unusual color! What color does it change to? This color is your spirit color for the summer. Now you're looking through your eyes out of the platform. You hear some distant geese honking. You touch your stomach lovingly and feel the sensation of, what? Is it a tee shirt? A dress? A robe? What's the texture? Maybe it's raw fiber like rough linen or maybe it's smooth silk. You deserve the finest fabric. Don't settle. Your shoes are made of a wild animal that is still alive. What animal is carrying you across this lake and into the summer? Keep this animal, the fabric, and the color you have discovered in this visualization close to your heart. Reflect your subconscious into the material world.

@ Motor City Wine

@ La Jalisciense Supermercado Y Taqueria

@ Eastern Market

@ Corktown

@ Warehouse in New Center

@ Foxglove

@ Old Miami

@ Motor City Brewing Works

@ Jobstoppers

@ Kelly's

@ Extra Crispy

@ Marble Bar

@ Extra Crispy

Statement for the Vibe of the Now
We're really in 2024 now. 2023 is in the past. That's how the passage of time works! Hehe. So annoying. Doesn't it feel like Time has almost been mocking us since the beginning of the pandemic? I feel that most of us have had enough and are gripping our own destiny in our hands. Us mortals have a short stage time. Don't forget to accessorize.

