SCENE IN DETROIT

BERET, IT'S COLD OUTSIDE
LEIGH MILLER | NOVEMBER, 2023

This month around the city, Detroiters got cozy with their headwear and outerwear. Berets were abundant (it's giving French “Détroit” roots), alongside some bold beanies, and only the fluffiest and fuzziest of accessories. With November bookended by snow flurries, Detroiters are going out bundled up, and the memo says COZY: soft textures, soft colors, soft patterns—Lots of fuffly, wide-collarcoats

(à la the 2014 “Teddy Bear Coat” trend) alongside comfy and chromatic outerwear choices featuring color-blocked pastels and floral prints. The patterns and pastels, like a fluffy patchwork quilt, were a pleasant surprise on the eye, combatting the currently grey cityscape. -LM
